

The National Whig
FRIDAY EVENING, MAY 21, 1847.
FOR PRESIDENT, IN 1848,
MAJOR GENERAL
ZACHARY TAYLOR, OF LOUISIANA,
THE HERO
OF
PALO ALTO, RESACA DE LA PALMA,
MONTEREY,
And Buena Vista.
Subject to the decision of the Whig National Convention.

✶ X, of the Baltimore Sun, who is Mr. Buchanan's and Mr. Polk's mouthpiece, says, that the "dispositions of Santa Ana were peaceable." Are the battles of Buena Vista and Cerro Gordo, in which hundreds of our best citizens bit the dust, the proofs of his peaceable dispositions?

✶ X, the fugleman of the Administration neutral Baltimore Sun, says that the battle of Cerro Gordo is the victory of the Mexican campaign. And General Polk, of course, the Hero of the Mexican war, because he furnished General Scott with a General whom to conquer!

IMPORTANT!—Gerrit Smith, the disunionist, declines the Presidency because he says he is unfit for it. Mr. Polk declines it because he can't get it!

✶ On the 18th instant 336 rank and file of the Tenth Infantry sailed from New York in the ship Republic for Brasos. Col. Temple accompanied them.

✶ The ship fever brought over in the immigrant ships is very fatal on Blackwell's Island, New York.

✶ The troops called for from Illinois, on the 29th ultimo, were all ready to be mustered into service on the 9th instant!

✶ A collision of the trains on the Fall River Railroad, Mass., occurred on the 20th instant. No lives lost. Damages 5,000.

✶ The Carbon County (Pa.) Gazette, heretofore a neutral paper, has taken ground for old Zach!

GUATEMALA.—A letter from the capital, dated the 31st March, says that on that day Guatemala, which had before formed part of the confederation of Central America, constituted herself into an independent Republic. Every thing was peaceful and prosperous there. The other States were likewise tranquil. Salvador and Nicaragua were endeavoring to reorganize the ancient Republic of Central America, but the enterprise was considered impracticable.

✶ Mr. Webster arrived at Augusta, Georgia, on the evening of the 18th. A public entertainment was to be given him on the following day.

SENATE.—By a late ordinance of the King of Bavaria, females are prohibited from pronouncing any monastic vow until after having passed their 30th year.

✶ Gen. Taylor has been made a "Life member of the Western Home Missionary Society."

Mr. Treadway does not intend to contest Flournoy's election from the Halifax District in Virginia, as he considers him elected by a majority of 59 instead of one.

Dromogole's majority over Bolling is ascertained to be 17.

The London folks propose to give Captain Stevens Thompson Mason, who was severely wounded at Cerro Gordo, a beautiful sword.

The General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church (old school) in the United States, commenced its sessions in Richmond on the 20th instant.

The Southern Baptist Convention met at Savannah on the 13th inst. to organize a Southern Baptist Church. Samuel Furman, minister of the Gospel was elected President.

Irving W. from the Fourth District in Virginia is defeated by three votes. He contests the election.

Upwards of 60 Americans reside in Constantinople. In 1832 the first American child was borne in that city.

Two Ohio pilots got into a fight at Cincinnati on the 17th inst., and it resulted in the death of one of them.

They estimate the Hemp crop this season in the West at 30,000 tons, of which 20,000 will be for exportation.

Forty officers and 265 rank and file left New York, on the 15th inst., for Vera Cruz. They were under the command of Major Gwynne of the 6th Infantry.

A planing and saw mill was destroyed by fire at Cincinnati on the 17th inst.—value $60,000. Total loss $50,000.

Sixteen persons were killed by the explosion of the boilers of the New Hampshire steamer on the Arkansas a few days ago.

The removal of Mr. Gatewood a moderate whig, from the place of Naval Officer at Portsmouth has created a tremendous sensation in that community. What does Mr. Polk care for that? His heart is no larger than a flint pebble and as hard. Why does not the Herald expose the intrigue by which this black act was done? If it does not, we will!

✶ There is now living in St. Marks a negro man who actually ran away from liberty in Pennsylvania into slavery in Florida. He says nothing would induce him to undergo again the degradation and isolation of free negroes in the North.

THE GREAT QUESTION
"MEXICO OR NO MEXICO."
HOW SHALL THE WHIGS MEET IT?

Proofs are multiplying upon the country every day, every hour, that the party in power intend to go into the next Presidential contest upon the great question of "Mexico or no Mexico." All domestic questions are worn out and electioneering subjects are now sought for in our foreign relations. In 1844 our opponents rode into power upon the Texas question and they now purpose to keep themselves in power by mousing the Mexican question. Extension of the bounds of the Republic and of "of the area of freedom" was the "open Sesame" in 1844. If the acquisition of a province could open the doors of the public Treasury to the friends of that acquisition, why may not the conquest of an empire secure to them a never-ending possession of the halls of power?

That a foreign war was deliberately determined upon by the administration on its advent to power, we are fully persuaded. It saw that it could not keep the government by relying upon the ordinary home party issues, and as its continuance in power was the primary object of the faction which had just succeeded in the elections, measures were forthwith taken to involve the country in a foreign war with the studied purpose of furthering that object. The Senate warded off a conflict with Great Britain which the Administration diligently sought to bring about. Thwarted in this quarter, it declared war against Mexico, without law or authority, and forced Congress to recognize that war.

And this war from the beginning has been prosecuted by the Administration with a view to the bringing into the next Presidential contest the question of territorial acquisition. It was for this purpose that all Oregon was claimed by the President in his Inaugural speech, and tho' he knew that a war with England, no matter what the cause, would be a popular thing owing to the national prejudice against G. Britain, he was determined to increase its popularity by involving it with a question of territory.—The war with Mexico was begun by driving the Mexican authority out of territory which the United States claimed to belong to them.—The first battle drove that authority beyond the Rio Grande, but the accomplishment of this object was not the purpose of the war. It was an excuse on which to hang the first aggression.—The conquest of peace was the next avowed object of the Administration. It knew the kind of enemy it had dealt with. It knew that no peace could ever be made with the unforgiving and proud Mexican. So much the better, for its ulterior purpose was this disposition of the enemy. The acquisition of the empire of Mexico was the real object of the war.—From the first it was designed to throw this question into the next Presidential contest, and daily and hourly is this intention ripening into absolute certainty. No peace will be made, none is desired to be made. The war will be kept up and the next Congress will be told that the enemy's country must be occupied as a conquered region to ensure the peace which he refuses to make on such terms as our national honor can accept.

Now—how shall the Whigs of the country meet this great question, for it is truly a great one, and when fairly made by the Administration, as it will be in December next, one that is destined to swallow up all other political questions. The Administration designs to throw it into the political arena. Shall the Whigs take it up and endeavor to throw it out? It will not do for us to attempt to evade the question of "Mexico or no Mexico." We must meet it like men, like Americans. It is one that has already sunk deep into the public mind. It even now affects the whole framework of society. Men of all parties are pouring out their best blood upon Mexican soil. That soil would not be given up readily by public sentiment even if the Government were to surrender it in a treaty of peace. But there is no such design on the part of the Government. Its purpose is to foster the sentiment of conquest and to appeal to the people on the question of "Mexico or no Mexico?"—with the expectation that the policy will be resisted, but that the resistants will be overpowered by the majority of the nation. Already the outcry is raised that if we surrender any part of Mexico, Great Britain will seize upon the rest. This outcry strikes a chord that never refuses to vibrate under the touch. The idea of English acquisition of Texas threw it into our arms. How then shall the Whigs of the country meet this question of "Mexico or no Mexico?" It is matter, as we said yesterday, for deep reflection. We desire to arouse the attention of our brethren to the subject thus early in order to be prepared to ward off the blow directed at our heads. To-morrow we shall attempt to suggest in our feeble way the only means by which the Whigs of the Union can meet this question to the everlasting discomfiture of the desperate faction now tyrannizing over our Constitution.

✶ The gallant Whigs of Richmond, Va. treated themselves to a supper on the 18th inst. in honor of their recent victory over Tory Leake. They presented Mr. Botts with a Rough and Ready walking stick. Look out for broken heads, next Congress, Messieurs Locofocos!

✶ Lt. McIntosh and his company of Volunteers are to sail from Savannah for Vera Cruz in a very few days.

BALLOON ASCENSION.—A paper balloon of variegated colors, 25 feet in circumference and 10 feet in height will be sent up this afternoon at 5 o'clock from the grounds in the rear of Peyton's boarding house on 4th street. Two flags with Old Zach's name inscribed upon them will be attached to the parachute.

✶ The collector of Norfolk, a rank tory, has recently appointed to a place in the custom house the secretary of the Clay Club in 1844, and of the late Rough and Ready meeting in that city. The appointee is a hot, uncompromising Whig. This tory collector sees the "wind coming round the corner." He is setting his house in order for Old Zach. He is wise!

The American Consul at Amsterdam thinks that 100,000 persons will emigrate from Central Europe this year to the United States.

The Episcopal Church of Pennsylvania has given $9000 to the starving Catholic of Ireland. The spirit of true charity has not yet fled from this cold earth!

✶ A skeleton has recently been dug up somewhere in Tennessee 16 feet high. It is neither man nor beast and yet it is like unto a man and not like unto a beast. It is probably a Tory of the old world!

✶ Gen. Pillow has gone home to Tennessee. He returns, it is said, to lead the forlorn hope of Polkocracy in that state against the Whigs in the coming battle of the ballot box. He will find himself, like his fess, on the wrong side of the breastwork!

✶ There were 1244 troops at New Orleans on the 13th inst waiting for transportation to the seat of war.

ATOCIA.—The New Orleans Delta asserts that this individual, the intimate friend and associate of Mr. Buchanan and President Polk, was a member of the night watch of that city, and that it was the most honorable position he ever occupied. The Delta says it did not finish the portrait. Fill it up, friend Delta,—the country demands it at your hands.

✶ The article in yesterday's paper respecting Cave Johnson and F. J. Grund was a communication but was erroneously inserted editorially.

The people of St. Peter's Miquelon have been put on allowance, so scarce have become provisions.

The Baltimore Patriot of last evening quotes a paragraph from the National Whig respecting the circulation of the Dutch Paper in this city &c., and gives credit for it to the National Intelligencer!!!

✶ New England capitalists have bought up the majority of the stock of the Baltimore and Philadelphia Railroad, and intend to relay the track with heavy edge rail, and to keep the road in perfect repair and order. Right glad will the travelling public be to hear this news!

BRASOS, 6TH MAY.—Gen. Cadwallader had arrived at this place, and intended to plant his camp at Palo Alto, for instructing the new Regiments. About 1500 men were already on the ground. The General has made his headquarters at camp, and is in command of the lower Rio Grande. The whole of the year men under Old Zach, disgusted with the management of the war by the President, intended to return home, but the way they speak of General Taylor is truly refreshing. They love him as a father! It seems that great alarm prevailed on the lower Rio Grande, at the rumor that Gen. Taylor was to be left with a corporal's guard, and that the new Regiments ordered to him had been re-ordered to Gen. Scott. The old Hero was fully prepared to descend upon San Luis, and only wanted about 10,000 men for the purpose.

✶ Lieut. Gen. Benton is fond of diving into literature, says the Raleigh Star, and drawing up pearls of quotations from the golden sands of the olden authors and of reading Humboldt. We wonder that he never, in any of his rhapsodies before the Senate, bethought him of a sentence to be found in Rabelais, book I, chap. 33.

"Oh that you would but make me your Lieutenant General! how I should truss up the rogues with discipline! I fret, I charge! I strike, I take, I kill, I slay, I play the devil. On, on, said Pierochole; he that loves me, follow me!"

✶ If Mr. Calhoun's friends have any self-respect left, we take it, the following paragraph from Mr. Polk's home organ, the Nashville Union, of the 10th instant, will arouse their indignation and make them forever abandon a party that can thus treat the man who helped to put it in power:

"Mr. Calhoun thought he could break down the Administration easier, in revenge for not having been retained as Secretary of State, by exaggerating the dangers of the climate of Mexico, and thereby preventing enlistments, than in any other way."

✶ One of Cave Johnson's miserable tools, who is as unmannerly as his letters, and who rejoices in the name of William Rodgers, Postmaster at Anthony's Creek, Virginia, writes us as follows: "I have allways bin a Dimokrat and you may be Federal Whigg as long as you please—only be careful to stick to the truth!" Hear this fellow lecturing about lying when he can't even spell the truth!!

Who will give us a sketch of Brigadier General Hopping and the way by which he came to be appointed? It is a rich story and will fairly illustrate the appointing policy of Messieurs Polk.

They are going to tunnel the St. Lawrence opposite the Island of Montreal, where the river is only one third of a mile from shore to shore. The proposed Atlantic Railway is to run along the floor of this tunnel.

A grand illumination was to take place last Saturday night in New Orleans in honor of all our victories, past and to come!

They have a house in Philadelphia, where poor parents, who are compelled to be absent all day from their homes, can leave their children, and where the innocents are taken care of. It is called the Foster House. Bless the spirits that conceived the idea and now carry it out!

A fix. A woman the other day attempting to get a divorce from her worse half, found that she was never married to him, and she went on her way with a different feeling!

A President of a bank in Boston has just been discovered to have been a habitual defaulter to the amount of $50,000 for the last 20 years, during which time he held the office. He paid up the deficiency the other day and resigned.

TENNESSEE.—Whig Convention at Memphis has nominated E. M. Yerger, Esq., as their candidate for Congress, in opposition to F. P. Stanton, who voted against the resolution of thanks to Gen. Taylor, for his brilliant victories on the 8th and 9th of May, and at Monterey. Stanton has already hung his harp upon the willows. He is wise, for Yerger will leave him "nowhere."

It is said that Santa Ana is now as anxious to get out as he was to get into Mexico. Does the "Puss" cover an exit as well as an ingress?

The Telegraph is to run from Charleston south along the railway.

There was frost on the night of the 16th at Haverhill, Mass.

General Taylor is a teetotaler!

They have the wires in operation between Pottsville and Philadelphia.

A Scholar Soldier.—Alex. Kunze, a private in company H, of the 2d Regiment of Illinois Volunteers, was supposed to have been the most learned man in the Army. He was a German, and a graduate of the Universities of Jena and Goettingen. He was but 27 years of age; and volunteered from curiosity. His leisure hours were employed in gathering botanical specimens, to send to his scientific friends in Germany. He was as enthusiastic and brave in battle as in his study, and died bravely at Buena Vista.

A SAD CASE.—A London paper says:—A distressing event connected with the loss of the Tweed, occurred at Southampton a short time since. A wife of one of the crew of that ill-fated vessel, the mother of six children, dropped down dead on being told abruptly by a neighbor that the Tweed was lost and that all hands perished. What renders the circumstance more affecting is, that the husband arrived safely at Southampton in the Avon packet, being one of the persons whose lives were so providentially saved.

✶ The Finca, Va. Valley Whig gives Old Zach's flag to the winds. Virginia is in a complete state of rebellion against Father Ritchie's domination.

✶ They are going to build a Railroad between Covington and Lexington, Ky. They are in earnest about it now.

✶ A large number of troops for Mexico had arrived at New Orleans on the 11th instant.

✶ Commandant Thomas W. Freeton, of the U. S. Navy, died at New York on Sunday last.

From the Marion (Va.) Pioneer.
ROTTEN SLEEPERS.

MR. VALATINE H. SOURHONOR, an eccentric friend, living in Pruntytown, has specially requested us to inform his friends that he has removed the old sleepers from his house, having discovered they were rotten, and has replaced them with new ones. Good; the notice, as requested, is hereby given to each and every one of his friends, singly and separately, who may chance to see this article. But before we dismiss the matter, may we not collect a few morals from this little incident in the affairs of domestic life.

Moral 1st. When you discover that you are in the possession of a genteel education, but that that education is used for licentious purposes; aiding you in pursuit of crime and wickedness, to the neglect of the Bible, and its grand and important truths—be satisfied that the sleepers to your house are rotten and need removing.

2d. When, as a married man, you find more pleasure in visiting the grogshop and gambling table, than in the company of your wife and children; breaking the heart of an affectionate wife, raising your children in idleness, vice and shame—feel assured, the sleepers to your house are in a rapid state of decay, and must soon be replaced with better ones, or your house will totter and fall.

3d. When, as a mechanic you habitually and unnecessarily neglect your work-shop, leaving your business in the care of inexperienced workmen, and your customers disappointed—take the hint; the rot has laid hold of your sleepers, the work of decay has at least commenced.

4th. When, as an aspiring politician, you mingle freely with the dram-drinking community, quaffing largely at the bowl yourself, that you may be thought a sociable, clever fellow; becoming a sot for the gain of a few votes—take the alarm; your house certainly stands on rotten sleepers.

5th. When, as a farmer, you become attached to petty speculations, leaving your farms for days and weeks at a time, and gaining nothing but the reputation of an idler; briars and thorns occupying the place that should be devoted to the culture of breadstuffs and grass; your fencing rotting down, your cattle starving and straying off—let us admonish you, your house needs new sleepers.

6th. When you contract the habits of slandering, back-biting and news-bearing—our recent correspondents would say to you, your house has rotten sleepers.

7th. When, as professors of religion you habitually neglect the house of prayer—remember, the work of decay is begun; your house has rotten sleepers.

8th. When, as a professor of religion, you contract a fondness for ardent spirits, become a drunken professor, wound the feelings of your brethren, and as far as your influence extends, injure the cause of religion; we would say to you, examine the sleepers of your house; they are not sound.

LOCAL INTELLIGENCE.

We noticed that there were two cantalopes offered for sale in the market yesterday.

The President, it is said, is extremely desirous of visiting Vera Cruz; and would do so were he not afraid of the vomito! On the 28th we believe he goes to North Carolina, his native State.

We have seen it stated that more than seventy thousand persons have visited the National Gallery, in the Patent Office building, within the last year.

Com.-Morris, the Chief of the Bureau of Construction, who has been for a long time sick, was enabled to walk out yesterday and take an airing.

Twenty-eight marines, under Sergeant Major Pulizzi, left the city in the cars yesterday evening, for Fort Hamilton, en route for Mexico. They were in full dress, are a fine looking set of fellows, and will, no doubt, if an opportunity be presented, do good service.

We saw a gentleman this morning standing on the steps of the Executive Mansion, talking in high glee to one of the lady inmates, who was leaning out an up-stair window. Why didn't he go in? Is this the latest fashion at court?

✶ Why is General Scott like a hasty plate of soup?

Because his fame is scalding the mouths of Mr. Polk and his supporters!

✶ SONS OF TEMPERANCE.—The committee appointed by the Grand Division of the District of Columbia to make arrangements for the Dedication of the Hall of the Sons of Temperance, find it will be impossible to have the Hall finished in time to join with Potomac Division No. 5, in their Anniversary Celebration, and therefore propose said Dedication; and recommend the Brothers of Washington to join Potomac Division in full regalia, on Monday the 24th instant, at half-past 2 o'clock, in Georgetown.
